

- Classs and Instances
  - Difference between a class and an instance
  - `__init__`
    - acts as a constructor for classes
    - use "self" so the instance of the class is initiated each time the class is called
  - each method within each class always takes the instance as the first argument